Dear Mr Raring:

We are following our letter of April 12, 1990 concerning Cartner's Service Center. Mr Cartner's station is in an isolated country location with no sewer system. The well at the service station has no contamination/ Upon removal of the tanks, we found there to be no leaking tanks. There was no free product on water or on the ground.

We have kept very accurate records on Mr Cartner's tanks which included tank measurements and meter readings. Mr Cartner was pumping as much product through his pumps as we were delivering to him. We are completely satisfied that he had no leaking tanks. We have been assured that it is quite common for soil samples to have a high reading when they are taken near the pump island due to a gradual accumulation of spilled product over the years. Mr Edgar Cartner told us that the pavement had been broken at that spot beside the pump island for years. Anytime a nozzle did not cut off or a hose was broken, the product went to that location.

Mr Gene Cartner handled the tank and soil removal and the refilling of the tank hole. The tanks and surrounding soil were placed behind the service station.

We had Nationwide tank and Environmental Service of Charlotte remove and dispose of the tanks. Please see attached Certificate of Disposal.

Sincerely,
